When I Grow Up, I want to Be...

Has anyone ever asked you what you want to be when you grow up? If not, don't worry, someone is sure to ask you soon enough! You have a lot of time to think about what you might like to be when you grow up, but now is as good a time as any to start thinking about it.

Do you have an idea of what you would like to be or do when you grow up? If not, here are a few questions you can ask yourself to help you start thinking of a few ideas. Have your mom or dad help you write a list of each of these things:

- What do you love to do? Do you like to draw, write, build, or dance? Maybe you like to take care of animals or help your mom or dad cook dinner.
- What are your strengths? What are you good at and what do other people tell you you're good at? Do you make people smile or help them feel better when they are sick?
- Who do you love to spend time with? What kind of person do you like to be around? How old are they and what are they like?

If the answers to these questions are just not coming to you yet, that's okay! Over the next week, start taking notes whenever something you're doing interests you or makes you smile and feel happy. Once you get all three lists done, pull them together and think about ways you can combine them.

Water Safety Tips

Chances are you'll spend some time in a pool, at the beach or on a boat this summer. Follow these water safety tips to stay high and dry!

- Learn to swim. It's pretty basic, but this is the best thing anyone can do to stay safe in the water.
- Never swim alone.
- Don't be shy about wearing a life preserver or other flotation device. It's better to be safe than sorry!
- Watch out for the "dangerous too's"—too tired, too cold, too far from safety, too much sun, and too much tiring activity.

Fourth of July Fun Facts

- When the United States became a country, there were about 2.5 million people living in the country. Today the population is around 311 million.
- More than 74 million Americans will barbecue on this day.
- It is estimated that over 150 million hot dogs will be consumed on this day.
- Over $200 million will be spent on fireworks.

Happy Birthday

You Can Help Your Family Save

Saving money isn't just for your parents. There are lots of ways you can pitch in and help your parents pinch pennies too. Here are few ideas:

- Clip coupons. Collecting coupons from newspapers and advertisements can help your parents save a lot of money on groceries, clothes, haircuts, and more.
- Pack a lunch. Save money by bringing a homemade lunch to school this fall, instead of buying a lunch from the cafeteria.
- Use less energy. Turn the lights out when you leave a room, and turn off the TV when nobody is watching it.

There are many more ways you can help your family save some money. Ask your parents for more ideas. Perhaps you could even do some chores for your neighbors to earn your own spending money.
